Walking between Sainte-Marie and the Wye Marsh? See if you can spot these 6 Canadian icons in the forest!

1. Samuel de Champlain admired this First Nation vessel for its speed and elegance.
2. Dappled with white dots, mimicking sunlight shining through leaves, these beautiful "fawns" are born each spring, about 6-12 weeks after Sweetwater!
3. Native to this land at the time of Sainte-Marie, this feathered giant was later hunted out by early settlers. Friends of Wye Marsh helped reintroduce it to Ontario after a 200-year absence.
4. Inspired by a hare's foot, this First Nation innovation can help us walk on snow.
5. What takes 10 years to grow from seed to flower, has three white petals, and has been used by the saints to teach spirituality?
6. This fascinating reptile can "walk" under water, and is central to the Wendat story of creation.
